Welcome Message and Scientific Rationale

Dear colleagues and friends

after the successful edition held last January in Monza, I would like to invite you to meet once again to share and deepen together that inescapable pathway that all those who wish to become good or excellent surgeons in the reconstruction of pelvic floor pathology must take.

We will do this path with the 'masterclass' formula, i.e. relatively short meetings dedicated specifically and exclusively to topics well catalogued in the pelvic surgeon's training pathway: from anatomy to reconstructive surgery.

The Faculty is made up of the best national experts in the specific subject; I have included 2 foreign guests because of the friendship and sharing of scientific educational and training paths over the years. The topics of the masterclass were related to the pathology of the central and anterior genitourinary segment; this second edition will be dedicated to the posterior sector, the management of complications, and the diagnosis and treatment of vesical and rectal fistulous lesions and 4th degree lacerations in childbirth complications.

In short, 2024 could be an interesting and generous year that will offer a lot of educational material to all those who want to implement their clinical skills in pelvic floor pathology and its reconstructive surgery.

How will we do this together? By starting with anatomy, especially functional anatomy, which is the basis for reconstructive surgery strategies.

We will learn about the complications of our surgical choices, whether towards fascial rather than prosthetic surgery, and we will learn how to prevent complications and how to repair them.

So: welcome and good work to all!!!!

Rodolfo Milani
